Reducing Disproportionate Minority Contact in Juvenile Justice by Making the Right Connections

October 25–27, 2007

Adam's Mark Hotel
Denver, CO

Phone: 303-893-3333 - Fax: 303-626-2543

CONFERENCE DESCRIPTION

This conference will provide state and local juvenile justice and other related policy makers and practitioners, such as juvenile justice specialists, DMC Coordinators, juvenile police officers, detention and probation professionals, family court judges, attorneys, and community-based youth service providers including child welfare professionals with a variety of strategies to help them make the right connections in their DMC-reduction efforts. The conference will feature workshops and panel presentations on best practices that may reduce DMC at different juvenile justice contact points, development and use of risk assessment instruments, cultural competency training, among other topics. Two useful tools will be launched at the conference: a DMC Best Practice Database, as part of OJJDP's Model Programs Guide, and a National DMC Databook to enable comparisons between local and national data. A detailed conference agenda will be forthcoming.
